Yanks Invade Guam, First U.S. Isle Lost

American infantrymen and Marines yesterday pushed inland from beachheads firmly established on the island of Guam after pouring ashore Wednesday under a thunderous supporting barrage from warships and aircraft.

Guam, first bit of U. S. territory seized by Japan in the Pacific shortly after the bombing of Pearl Harbor, had been under an unprecedented attack by U. S. battleships and war planes for 17 days prior to the landings. As thousands of Marines and doughboys swept in from their beachhead positions the terrific shelling continued to tear at remaining Jap defenses.

The rescue of Guam from Japan, presently struggling to replace the Tojo government, will extend Allied control of the Mariana Islands. This string of 14 islands extends from Uracas, about 900 miles below Tokyo, southward to Guam, 1565 miles from the Japanese capital.

Saipan, conquered after the most bitter but strategically most valuable of Pacific battles, already is providing a base from which Japan's Boin and Kazan islands have been bombed.

The Guam garrison apparently was as strong as that which defended Saipan where 20,000 troops confronted Americans. The Yanks had to kill nearly every Jap there to clinch the victory after 25 days of bloody fighting.

Japanese radios were silent on the Guam landings but cryptic Dcmei broadcast suggested that Emperor Hirohito's war lords had reconsidered the idea of having two premiers to succeed Tojo. The Imperial Rule Assistance Association at a special meeting unanimously pledged to give support to a new cabinet which will be formed under Gen. Kuniaki Koise or Aom Mitsumasa Yonal. This indicated that only one of them would get the No. 1 position.

Child's Remark May Be Nemesis Of Robot Bomb

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—A seven-and-one-half-year-old boy, Frederick Adrus Gauteson, of Plainfield, N. J., was credited by the president of a precision instrument company today with the discovery of a new physics principle which might lead to the defeat of the robot bomb.

Mrs. H. M. McNab, president of McNab, Inc., of Bridgeport, Conn., declined to elaborate on the new device or the principle from which it was developed, but said that the scientists believe it is sound and a step in the direction of repelling the robot bombs and any weapon that may come from Germany.

The device was developed after the child remarked to a mechanic or a similarity of the movement between a garter snake and an elastic watchband.

The principle of the device, a director of the firm said, questioned Newton's third law of motion that "every action has equal and opposite reactions."

Democrats Assail GOP 'Inexperience' After Nominating FDR on First Ballot

CHICAGO, July 21 — With President Roosevelt nominated overwhelmingly for a fourth term and the Democratic campaign launched on the issue of the Republican ticket's "inexperience and immaturity," Democratic National convention delegates came back to Chicago Stadium today to wind up their three-day session with the selection of a Vice-Presidential candidate.

Choice of the second man on the ticket was the only controversy left after the Rules Committee had rejected Southern demands for restoration of the two-thirds rule. The Platform Committee had turned a cold shoulder on a Dixie plea for a "white supremacy plank" and the Credentials Committee had seated two rival delegates from Texas, each with half the normal vote.

National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan's last-minute disclosure that Mr. Roosevelt had written him a second letter saying he would "be very glad" to have either Sen. Harry T. Truman of Missouri or Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas as his running mate, suggested that party leaders were finding a way out of the controversy surrounding efforts to renominate Henry A. Wallace.

The President accepted his fourth nomination by radio from an unidentified Pacific coast naval base shortly after the convention gave him a rousing first ballot endorsement, 1,086 votes out of a total of 1,176—almost 500 more than the necessary majority of 589. Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia polled 16 and former Postmaster General James A. Farley one.

Highlights of the Democratic platform as adopted by the convention were:

Foreign Policy—Pledges "U. S. membership in an international organization open to "all peace-loving states, large and small," for the "prevention of aggression which the nations would maintain and make available "for joint

Heavy Rain Slows Allies in France; British Consolidate Newest Gains

The heaviest downpour of rain since D-Day slowed the Allies all along the Normandy battlefield yesterday.

British and Canadian forces dug in and consolidated 80 square miles of territory occupied since the Orne breakthrough Tuesday, while American troops occupied two villages a few miles north and northeast of Periers, junction of the St. Lo-Periers-Lessay road and of Highway 171, which runs southwest from Carentan to Coutances on the west coast. Tanks in St. Lo were surrounded on three sides by heavy German resistance.

Canadian infantry and armor, forced to withdraw from Bourgebus, four miles due south of Caen, in the face of a heavy German counter-attack, fought their way back through a quagmire of mud and recaptured the town 24 hours later. Canadian and British infantry captured St. Andre-sur-Orne, about four and a quarter miles south of Caen.

British and Canadians also took Granville, about 16 miles west of Caen, which gave them control of the Caen-Caumont road.

On the American sector of the front doughboys captured Seves and Raids, which put them about two miles north and three miles northeast of Periers.

A German strongpoint also was wiped out south of Amigny. A region where the Yanks have already cut the St. Lo-Periers-

BEEF STILL RATIONED

WASHINGTON, July 21—All beefsteak and beef roasts will remain on the list of rationed meats at least until Aug. 15, despite a War Food Administration order to the contrary, an Office of Price Administration spokesman indicated yesterday.

The OPA, it is understood, vigorously objects to the decision by Marvin Jones, head of WFA, to make most beef grades point-free next month and plans to postpone the effective date of the directive.

SPELLMAN OVERSEAS

NEW YORK, July 21—Archbishop Francis Spellman, head of Catholic chaplains in the armed services, has left on his second overseas trip to visit chaplains and confer with Pope Pius XII in Rome.

Plot by Generals to Form New Peace Government Thwarted, Berlin Asserts

Adolf Hitler's Third Reich was shaken yesterday by the first obvious tremors of internal eruption.

Twenty-four hours after an unsuccessful attempt had been made to assassinate the German Fuehrer, Nazi authorities were taking swift and drastic steps to quell what neutral sources described as a widespread revolt led by some of Germany's highest military leaders. Berlin said the conspirators aimed to set up a new government and sue for peace. There was every evidence that the crisis was not over, the conservative BBC reported.

Indications that the Reich, under growing pressure from east, west and south, had entered upon the last lap—long though it may be—to defeat were contained in these developments:

1—Nazi authorities moved swiftly to tighten the bonds between the Nazi party and the German military forces. Air Marshal Goering instructed the Luftwaffe to take orders from no one except himself; Adm. Doenitz gave similar instructions to the Navy; pledges of loyalty were demanded from all army commanders.

2—Berlin, acknowledging the fact that the attempt to kill Hitler with a time bomb had been made by a German military clique, announced that the leader of the conspirators—Col. Gen. von Stauffenberg, member of the general staff—had been executed and the others rounded up.

3—Hitler himself went on the radio with an address notably lacking in confidence, in which he told the German people he had "done his best" for Germany.

4—Nazi authorities appealed to the people for loyalty, declaring that the threat on Hitler's life should make all Germans rally to his support.

Hitler, in his radio speech, said the assassins planned to set up a government which would sue for peace and "carry out a stab in the back as in 1918."

Allied radios in Britain and Russia quickly seized the chance to fan the embers of rebellion. BBC told the Germans civil war had broken out in their country.

Berlin radio said the revolt was plotted by a small clique of generals and other high officers, among them Gen. Beck, chief of staff until 1938 and generally regarded as one of Germany's best military brains. An opponent of the occupation of Czecho-Slovakia in 1939, he was a victim later of one of Hitler's bloodless purges. Berlin radio said Beck was "no longer among the living."

Although Berlin tried to give the impression that the revolt was local and short-lived, neutral sources said there was ample evidence that it was widespread. Stockholm heard that measures had to be taken to quell disturbances and demonstrations in the heart of Berlin Thursday night, and also that two armored divisions on the East Prussia front had revolted.

Berlin also sought to prove the loyalty of German troops by telling how soldiers reported to the authorities a fake order by which the anti-Hitler conspirators attempted to seize the military quarters in Berlin. Reports reaching Stockholm, on the other hand, said members of Hitler's own guard were involved and many had been shot.

Telephone communications between Germany and Stockholm, severed Thursday morning, were partially restored yesterday.

Sources in the Swedish capital, which BBC considered reliable, expressed the belief that several of Germany's highest generals were involved in the plot.

Russians Smash Bug River Line, Reach West Bank

The Red Army smashed the German's Bug River line on a 47 mile front yesterday and bridged the last natural obstacle before Warsaw, 100 miles away. Marshal Stalin announced in an order of the day late last night that his troops already had advanced five miles on the west bank of the river.

The Russians reached the Bug after a 81-mile advance in a new offensive which had smashed a 98-mile gap in the German line south of Brest-Litovsk. Farther south, the Russians were only five miles outside the important supply base of Lwow.

The new outflanking wedge between Brest-Litovsk and Lwow coincided with fresh gains on the Baltic front, where Soviet forces to the southwest of Dvinsk cut the enemy rail line running 60 miles west to Panevezys.

Lwow seemed likely to be the next Nazi stronghold to topple before the Soviet juggernaut. Outflanking columns swung wide beyond the city to north and south—the one to the north forcing its way into Rava Russka, 40 miles northwest of the Lwow base on the highway to Lublin. At this point the Russians were 83 miles to the west of the Bug.

CAPITAL 18 HOURS AWAY

WASHINGTON, July 21 (Reuter)—The first non-stop flight from London to Washington was made this week by a U. S. Army C54 transport plane, the War Department announced yesterday. The 3,900-mile trip took 18 hours.

U.S. Troops Make Gains Toward Pisa, Nazi Suicide Squads Defend Arno

Strong suicide detachments of Germans, with the advantage of terrain and extensive minefields, impeded Fifth Army patrols attempting to cross the Arno River in Italy yesterday, although troops north of Leghorn hammered on small gains in their advance toward Pisa.

The Eighth Army in central and eastern Italy shortened its approach to Gothic Line positions, seizing Monte Quercchiabella and Monte San Michele in a five mile thrust beyond Rad da, which brought it to within 14 miles of Florence. The Eighth also was closing in on Citta Di Castello, east of Arezzo.

In the Ancona sector, Polish troops crossed the River Esino on a 15 mile front. They have 85 miles to go in difficult mountain country before they reach their end of the Gothic Line.

The Allied Control Commission announced the transfer to the Italian government of five additional provinces, Foggia, Campobasso, Benevento, Avellino and Naples. By agreement with the Italian government, Naples remains a military zone under Allied control, owing to its importance as a port and supply base.

Army Notes

Stars and Stripes is a little bit phizzed off at Lt. Maxim Lederhander, of Brooklyn, an ex-Associated Press photog and now head of an Army Signal Corps Photographic Detachment. He shot a pretty good picture of an LST unloading vehicles and personnel of the "Famous Fourth" onto a rhino barge on D-Day—and where do you think the picture appeared, exclusively? In a German Army newspaper! As a matter of fact, though, it wasn't the lieutenant's fault. After shooting the picture, he packed the exposed film into a capsule, harnessed it on a Signal Corps pigeon and sent the pigeon on its way to England. The pigeon, however, got his directions wrong and ended up behind the German lines. The German paper was considerate enough to give Lt. Lederhander a credit line.

Add Army expressions: when enemy fire forces a certain observation post section to desert its high perch and take cover, it always calls back to the rear: "We're going down to the cellar to pray."

Telephone lines are utilized during battle lulls to carry music and news to men of the Second Infantry Division's field artillery battalions.

Between fire missions and when the telephone system is idle, a sextet plays and sings and radio music is picked up. For observation posts, where men sit through lonely 24-hour vigils watching friendly and enemy fire from front-line points, the news and funny papers are read.

Stars of the telephone entertainment are Pfc James P. Christian, of Weldon, Va., who drums out such tunes as "Sally Goodin" and "Leather Breeches" on his guitar, and his brother, Pvt. Mike W. Christian, violinist. Other members of the sextet are Cpl Grady R. Lewis, Savannah, Tex., Pfc Clarence Moore, Mapon, Ill., Pvt. Curtis F. McAdoo, Temple, Tex., and Pfc Carl A. Byrd, Carthage, Tex., singers.

They may be beating out "Arkansas Traveler" when a sudden interruption and an order, "Fire Mission," sends them scrambling back to their positions, and in a few minutes the guns are speaking again.

There was a little house on a hill overlooking St. Lo which wouldn't have been more bitterly fought over if it had been Hitler's hideout in Berchtesgaden. The cellar was full of Calvados, bottled French TNT. American troops went in and found the cellar. In a short time the patrol was moved out and the Germans moved in—and found the cellar. Realizing that not all the boys were teetotalers, the U. S. battalion commander called on Maj. Asa B. Gardiner, of Baltimore, the civil affairs officer to destroy the cellar and contents when his boys took the house again.

It takes more than one bullet to stop Lt. Francis E. Rounds, of Buclairville, N. Y. Leading his Fourth Infantry Division platoon in an attack, he suffered a slight wound, but kept on. Later he was again wounded, but still went on next morning, preparing his men for another advance, a third bullet struck him, just above the knee—and still he led his men against a strong enemy position. The job finished, he limped to an aid station, 300 yards away, and was sent to a hospital. He was later awarded the Silver Star.

If you can't get anything else in Cherbourg you can take a shower at the Bain Douche Populaire, 8 Rue Place Notre Dame Duvoez, and at the QM showers, Ave Reibell, opposite the railroad station.

Nations Act To Stabilize All Currency

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., July 21 (Reuter)—Final agreement on the creation of an International Exchange Stabilization Fund was reached at the International Monetary Conference yesterday when countries which previously had protested that their quotas were too low or gold concentration too high withdrew their objections.

However, Russia and France—two of the seven nations which had held out—moved that their objections be retained in the conference minutes after indicating a willingness to co-operate. The action will enable the two countries to have their cases reconsidered later.

It was understood that the Russian delegates agreed to contributing $1,000,000,000 to the fund—a compromise between the figure of $1,200,000,000 suggested by the U. S. and the $900,000,000 wanted by the Russians.

HARMON SCORES AGAIN

DETROIT, July 21—Lt. Tom Harmon, former Michigan football star, and Movie Actress Elyse Knox will be married at Ann Arbor on Aug. 26. The announcement was made after Miss Knox received an annulment of a previous marriage which ended in divorce.

NICE COMPANY

CHICAGO, July 21—Two soldiers at Camp Ellis who were convicted by court martial for allowing a German prisoner of war to put on civilian clothes and accompany them to a tavern, have been sentenced to five years at hard labor. A third soldier implicated in the incident has been given six months.

Germany Moves To Quell Revolt

 involved in the plot and had escaped capture. Among them, they believed, were Field Marshal Keitel, chief of the German High Command, and Gen. von Rundstedt, removed last month as commander of the German forces in Normandy.

Von Rundstedt, dean of the Junkers generals who have dominated German politics for decades, was outspoken in his opposition to Hitler and the Nazis but an ardent proponent of military supremacy in the Reich. It has been widely reported that he flatly told a council of German generals in the autumn of 1943 that Germany had lost the war and could fight on only for easier peace terms.

Persons familiar with Rundstedt believe his primary desire in the present situation is to save the German army from destruction. Moreover, it was pointed out that the Russians are only eight miles from East Prussia, treasured home of the Junkers ruling class.

Stekholm reports said last night that the attempt to assassinate Hitler during a military conference at Berchtesgaden misfired when the bomb went off too soon. Hitler was only slightly injured, Berlin said.

Weather Slows Allies in France

 Lesay road between Periers and St. Lo

The Germans south of St. Lo kept shelling approaches to the city. American patrols, probing enemy positions east and west of St. Lo met strong resistance. Just north of Lesay, the Germans fought fiercely to hold a road junction.

Gen. Pierre Koenig, commander of the French forces of the interior, said in Normandy that 80 per cent of the population of France was taking part in the resistance against German occupation.

Rear Adm Alan Goodrich Kirk, U. S. N., commander of the western task force, meanwhile declared at SHAEF last night that the Allies had perfected their technique of amphibious warfare to such a point that 90 per cent of the targets assigned to naval bombardment at Cherbourg were hit effectively.

FDR Talk Made From Naval Base

LOS ANGELES, July 21—President Roosevelt's acceptance speech, broadcast from his Presidential train at a west coast base, came as a climax of a highly secretive cross-country trip lasting six days. The disclosure that he was on the west coast apparently set at rest rumors that the President was on his way to a new conference with Winston Churchill.

BUT WHAT OF THE OTHERS?

LONG BEACH, N. J., July 21—Enforcement of the town ordinance which makes it illegal to walk in the street while clad only in shorts bathing suits or beach robes was ordered by Public Safety Commissioner Frank A. Brazo, who explained: "We are tired of seeing 200-pound 40-year-old mammas trying to make themselves pin-up girls by parading the streets in shorts and sarong outfits."

Five Million Gate Seen for Fight

NEW YORK, July 21—Lightweights Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack are expected to raise five million dollars in war bond sales when they meet Aug. 4 at Madison Square Garden, it was reported today. Montgomery, recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as world lightweight titleholder, and Jack will not receive any money for the fight.
 Tickets will be sold for bond purchases ranging from $25 to $100,000. Both boxers are in the Army, Montgomery at Keesler Field and Jack at Fort Benning.

ST. LOUIS, July 21—Playing on their own home lot under lights paid off for the Browns again last night as Luke Sewell's athletes punished the challenging Yankees, 7-3, to increase their American League lead over the New Yorkers to three full games. It was the victors' second success in three games of the current four-game "crucial" series.

Hank Borowy, Yankee mound ace, was shelled from the mound in the seventh, snowed under a five-run barrage including a three-run homer by outfielder Mike Chartak and a two-run circuit blow by First Baseman George McQuinn. Chartak and McQuinn, incidentally, were farmhands on the same team in Newark a few years ago. Russ Derry, Bomber outfielder, also hit a homer in the ninth.

Denny Galehouse, Browns' righthander, was the winner. He replaced Nelson Potter in the fifth after Potter was ejected by Umpire Cal Hubbard for tossing spit balls. Hubbard had previously warned him against moistening his fingers.

In Chicago, the Red Sox thumped the White Sox for the 12th time in 13 games, winning by an 11-7 count behind Frank Barrett, Pete Fox and Bobby Doerr each drove in three runs for the Sox.

Chasing home four runs with three safe blows, big Rudy York carried the Tigers to a 7-6 verdict over the Senators in Detroit. Dick Wakefield hit his third home run in the fifth with the bases empty for the Bengals.

The Indians scalped the Athletics, 2-1, at Cleveland for the third straight over the A's. A pass to Lou Boudreau, Roy Cullenbine's double and two infield outs in the seventh gave the Indians their winning margin.

Cardinals Win Two

The torrid Cardinals expanded their lead to 13 games in the National League by humbling the Giants in both ends of a doubleheader, 10-2 and 6-2. Mort Cooper registered his 11th triumph in the opener as his mates blasted Jack Brewer for seven runs in the first three frames. Walker Cooper homered for the Redbirds and Buddy Kerr for the Giants. Kerr's second homer of the day knotted the count at 2-2 in the seventh inning of the nightcap but the Cards collected four runs in the 11th to win.

The beloved Bums of Brooklyn disappointed the Flatbush faithful by succumbing to the Reds, 6-0, at Ebbets Field behind the superb pitching of Harry Gumbert.

After halting the Phillies, 4-1, in a morning game for swing-shift war workers, the Pirates fell before the Quaker club, 3-2, in an 11-inning afternoon game at Philadelphia. Ron Northey's single, a sacrifice and Ford Mullen's drive to right broke up the second game.

Eighth place opened its arms again to the unpredictable Cubs after they faltered twice against the Braves by the same 5-4 count. The first game went 14 innings with Jim Tobin going the route for the Braves and winning when Charlie Workman singled with the bases filled. Connie Ryan's double in the ninth frame of the nightcap scored Warren Heston with the deciding tally.

WILLIAMS BEATS KOGON

NEW YORK, July 21—Ike Williams, Negro lightweight from Trenton, N. J., whirled his way to an easy decision over Julie Kogon, of Hartford, Conn., at Madison Square Garden before 6,000 customers. Kogon was down for seven in the 10th.
